

Christopher Yung

is a partner at Lenczner Slaght.

Chris' practice focuses on commercial litigation, arbitration, insolvency and restructuring, and securities litigation. He regularly acts for corporations (both public and closely held private companies), and their directors, officers, and shareholders.

Chris has extensive experience representing clients in contract disputes, corporate governance, oppression and shareholder litigation, securities law matters and proceedings under the Companies' Creditors Arrangement Act and the Bankruptcy and Insolvency Act. He has appeared as counsel before all levels of Court in Ontario, the Federal Court, the Federal Court of Appeal, as well as administrative tribunals and regulators, and in private and international arbitrations.

Prior to joining Lenczner Slaght, Chris practiced with a leading international Canadian firm as a corporate transactional lawyer in Toronto and London, UK, specializing in mergers and acquisitions, corporate finance, and general corporate commercial matters.

Chris graduated with honours from the University of Toronto, Faculty of Law, in 2011, receiving a course prize in Canadian income tax law, and studying a term abroad at the University of Hong Kong, Faculty of Law.

Prior to attending law school Chris completed a masters in international relations at the London School of Economics, worked at NATO headquarters in Brussels, and at the Department of Foreign Affairs and International Trade in Ottawa.

- Tariff Tensions: Assessing Your Cross-Border Contract Risk – President Donald Trump proclaimed April 2 "Liberation Day" and unveiled a new trade policy for worldwide "reciprocal tariffs". Initial reactions were that Canada (and Mexico) emerged relatively better off in that they would continue to benefit from a 0% tariff on goods compliant with the United States-Mexico-Canada Agreement (USMCA). However, the scope of such exceptions is itself an uncertainty, as the USMCA is up for a review in 2026 and may well be renegotiated sooner than that. In the meantime, Canada still faces the 25% tariff on steel and aluminum which came into effect on March 12, and most importantly a 25% tariff on automobiles and auto parts which comes into effect today.
- Funding Corporate Governance Litigation with the Company Coffers – On December 2, 2024 a Delaware judge upheld her prior January 2024 ruling that Elon Musk's compensation package, valued at $55.8 billion, had to be rescinded because it was approved in breach of the directors' fiduciary duties (Tornetta v Musk). One month later, the same Delaware judge approved a settlement wherein Tesla's directors agreed to return or forgo $919 million in compensation, which had been subject to a separate legal complaint by the Police and Fire Retirement System of the City of Detroit (Police & Fire Retirement System of the City of Detroit v Musk). The two cases were brought as derivative actions on behalf of shareholders of Tesla. The former action is now subject to an appeal brought by Tesla, but also an appeal by a separate group of Florida shareholders.

- The Designated Projects Scheme, Not A Designated Survivor: The Supreme Court Weighs in on the Federal Environmental Assessment Regime – The complexity of regulating environmental impacts in Canada has proven to be a thorny issue on both constitutional and practical fronts. On the heels of 2021's carbon pricing decision, the Supreme Court of Canada has again weighed in on how the division of powers can impact environmental regulation. This time, the Court considered the federal environmental assessment regime, ultimately finding that the federal legislation waded too far into provincial waters.
- Tips from Toronto's Business Court – Takeaways from CLUC Education Day 2023 – The Commercial List Users' Committee (CLUC) held its annual Education Day on June 7. The annual event offers an opportunity for members of the bar to gather with the Judges of the Commercial List to discuss current issues and best practices.
- Challenges in Spotting Material Changes – The philosopher

Heraclitus observed that “the only constant in life is change”, a maxim as true for the business world as the natural world. Publicly traded companies operate in a dynamic environment, where commodity prices swing, new laws are passed, and scientific breakthroughs are made. So long as those companies wish to maintain their access to public markets, they must carefully consider how day-to-day happenings (and their own reactions to those events) affect their continuous disclosure obligations. These disclosure judgements are fact-specific and often fast-paced, yet they carry potentially significant consequences.

- Annual Review of Insolvency Law Virtual Conference: 2022 – On February 4, 2022, CAIRP held its 19th Annual Review of Insolvency Law. The conference brought together insolvency law practitioners from across Canada for a showcase of papers authored for the latest edition of the Annual Review of Insolvency Law publication. The journal itself is now available in full on CanLII. Each panel was anchored by an ARIL paper whose author(s) led spirited discussions on contested topics important to the future of the insolvency practice.
- There’s No Business Like Show Business: Cineplex Awarded $1.24 Billion in Busted Deal Lawsuit – At the outbreak of the COVID-19 pandemic, a buyer of any business, particularly a theater operation heavily affected by public health restrictions, might understandably ask themselves; “Can I walk away from the deal?”
- Creditor Democracy - The Supreme Court’s Reasons in Callidus – In Back to Methuselah, George Bernard Shaw famously wrote that an election was “as bad as a battle except for the blood”. That is perhaps dramatic in the context of the Companies’ Creditors Arrangement Act (“CCAA”), but certainly a creditor vote can be a tense and contested affair. Such was the case when Callidus Capital Corp (“Callidus”), an asset-based or “distressed lender” and secured creditor, made a “second kick at the can” to approve a plan of arrangement already rejected by unsecured creditors, and found itself barred from voting on the plan for having acted for an “improper purpose”.
- Think before you tweet: Social Media and Securities Law – In September 2018, the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission (“SEC”) charged Elon Musk, the former Chairman of Tesla, Inc., with securities fraud. A series of Tweets on Musk’s personal page, the first of which read: “Am considering taking Tesla private at $420. Funding secured”, caused share prices to instantly soar. In reality, the potential transaction was uncertain and subject to a number of contingencies. Market confusion and disruption ensued.
- Legal Challenges Brewing: Fallout From the Striking Down of Alberta’s Craft Beer Policies – Tariffs and protectionism have been hot topics in the law in 2018. While NAFTA negotiations and a growing US-Chinese Trade War dominate the headlines, the issue has also spread into domestic Canadian politics this year.
