10th National Pro Bono Conference

Rebecca Jones and Aoife Quinn were invited to share their expertise at the 10th National Pro Bono Conference.

Rebecca Jones will lead the panel Individual Service to Systemic Advocacy, discussing how individual legal service can reveal systemic issues and point to broader change, including examples from consumer law, class actions, government accountability, and public interest advocacy, and discussing how individual cases can point to larger reforms.

Aoife Quinn will speak on the panel Purpose in Practice: Leadership, Legacy, and the Power of Pro Bono, exploring leadership lessons for closing the access-to-justice gap. She will reflect on her personal journey, the evolving role of the legal profession in addressing unmet legal needs, the importance of pro bono service, and the lasting impact of purpose-driven volunteering.
