Amy Sherrard Joins Lenczner Slaght

Canada's leading litigation firm adds another exceptionally talented associate to its talent pool.

Lenczner Slaght is excited to welcome Amy Sherrard to the firm. Amy's practice encompasses a broad range of civil litigation, including commercial, professional liability, class actions, and employment law.

Amy is joining us after almost two years at a leading management side employment law boutique where she practiced exclusively in the litigation group. She has represented clients before all levels of the Superior Court, administrative tribunals and in private mediations and arbitrations.

Amy obtained her law degree from the University of Ottawa where she graduated Cum Laude and on the Dean's Honour List. Prior to her legal career, Amy obtained her Bachelor of International Business from Carleton University, after completing a year abroad in Madrid, Spain.

With her solid litigation experience and strong academic background, Amy is a great addition to our growing firm.
