Appeal Watch: Uneven Scrutiny and Twin Myth Safeguards – A Cry for Clarity

Donya Tamehi authored an article for Osgoode's legal commentary blog, theCourt.ca. The article discusses how the upcoming R v Kinamore appeal gives the Supreme Court of Canada an opportunity to clarify the role of "uneven scrutiny" as a ground for appellate review and to assess exemptions of Crown-led evidence from s. 276 voir dires. (Prior to joining Lenczner Slaght)
