Zachary London

is a Legal Project Manager at Lenczner Slaght.

A proactive and solutions-oriented project manager, Zac works closely with our clients, lawyers, and other stakeholders to support the successful delivery of legal matters. He emphasizes collaboration and communication, using tailored project management tools and processes to drive progress while managing budgets, timelines, and potential risks. He adapts best practices to the unique needs of each matter, with a consistent focus on improving efficiency and client satisfaction.

He brings extensive experience across a range of industries, including financial services, insurance, the public sector, and professional services. Zac has supported complex business transformation and process improvement initiatives, working with senior stakeholders to oversee scope, timelines, budgets and to drive successful outcomes.

Prior to joining Lenczner Slaght, Zac spent seven years at a large North American consulting firm, where he managed complex, cross-functional projects and programs from scoping through execution and delivery. He holds a Project Management Professional (PMP) certification and draws on this experience to support disciplined, structured project delivery in the legal context.
