Cassie Chaloux Joins Lenczner Slaghtâ€™s Construction and Infrastructure Team

Canada's leading litigation firm grows its expert Construction and Infrastructure Group with the addition of exceptional new associate, Cassie Chaloux.

Cassie's practice focuses on litigating disputes within the construction and real estate sectors. She has extensive experience representing clients across the construction pyramid, including owners, general contractors, subcontractors, suppliers, and consultants on a wide range of construction disputes. Cassie has appeared at various levels of the Ontario courts and in private hearings, including mediation and arbitration, on behalf of her clients.

"We are pleased to welcome Cassie to the Firm", says Managing Partner, Monique Jilesen. "Cassie brings valuable experience in construction and real estate law, along with a strong commitment to advocating for her clients' best interests. We look forward to adding her knowledge and expertise to our team!"

Cassie completed her JD at the Dalhousie Schulich School of Law after obtaining her BA from McGill University in English Literature and Politics, Law & Society. Prior to joining Lenczner Slaght, Cassie practiced in the construction group at a large Toronto firm.

Cassie is an active member of The Advocates' Society and the Canadian Association of Women in Construction.
