Public Works begins 'historic procurement case' hearing

Peter Osborne was quoted in the Ottawa Citizen on May 12, 2014.

"After more than seven years of preliminaries, the main legal battle between TPG Technology and Public Works got underway Monday morning in federal court with sharply differing takes on what's at stake...

...Peter Osborne, the Toronto-based hired gun who is leading the defence for the government, offered that the legal case was more banal than that. "TPG could not accept then or now that it was not successful with its bid," he said in a courtroom..."
