
Junior Health Law Counsel

Lenczner Slaght is widely recognized as Canada's leading litigation firm. Focusing exclusively on litigation and advocacy, our lawyers represent clients in a diverse range of cases from commercial disputes and class actions to cross-border matters and professional regulation.

We are currently seeking a Junior Health Law Counsel qualified to practice law in Ontario. We are looking for a lawyer who is recognized as or will continue to develop into someone who is sought after as an expert in this area. The successful candidate will specialize in this type of work and be excellent in the field. This is not a partnership track position.

The Junior Health Law Counsel role will work with a team of Partners and Associates ensuring the best outcomes for clients by demonstrating a high level of technical excellence. They will play an integral role in providing clients with superior legal guidance and representation for a wide range of health law matters. A significant part of the Counsel's practice will focus on regulatory work at The College of Physicians and Surgeons of Ontario (CPSO), privacy issues, hospital privileges issues, mental health, and medical assistance in dying in the health law context.
